HOFFA TO BATTLE MEANY

Washburn Rij

CHATTY, MUM ABOUT DIO — Labor Leader Lester Washburn tells Senate investigators that AFL-CIO leader David Dubinsky, head of the International Ladies Garment Workers, refused to kick racketeer Johnny Dio out of the New York labor movement "because it might have exposed something in his own union." Another witness, but a less talkative one, was jowly Theodore (Teddy Ray) Rij, 240-pound bodyguard for Dio. He ducked behind the Fifth amendment.

Dulles' New Disarmament Plan Is Praised by U. S. Democrats

WASHINGTON (UP) — Leading Democrats today praised the West's new disarmament proposals as a "cards on the table" move. They said it is up to Russia to "fish or cut bait."

Sharing in the commendation was Secretary of State John Foster Dulles who presented the sweeping new ground-sky inspection proposal to the five - power London disarmament conference Friday.

Dulles was due back in Washington today to report to President Eisenhower on prospects for success of the disarmament talks. Eisenhower sent Dulles to the London meeting in hopes of reviving the lagging disarmament effort.

The West, through Dulles, offered to open all of the United States, Western Europe and Canada to Russian air and ground inspection if Russia will permit the West to similarly inspect all Soviet territory including satellites. If Russia won't go that far lesser plans were offered.

The initial Russian reaction was chilly but Dulles called it "no more negative than expected." No final Russian decision is expected for weeks.

In Washington Sen. Mike Mansfield (Mont.), the assistant Senate Democratic leader, said Dulles was to be commended "for removing the gimmicks and the angles from the open skies proposal."

"He has gone just as far as he could," Mansfield told a reporter. "He has laid all the cards on the table face up and it is now up to the Soviet Union to fish or cut bait. Evasion, alibis and dilatory tactics will no longer suffice."

Sen. John J. Sparkman (D-Ala.), a member of the foreign relations group and also the special Senate Disarmament Subcommittee, described the Western offer as "very good."

A Russian Embassy communique, ignoring the fact that the new "open skies" proposal is part of an American "package" plan, assailed it because it made no arrangement to halt nuclear tests.

The communique also expressed regret over the fact that Secretary of State John Foster Dulles did not discuss disarmament with "all the foreign ministers" of the major powers — a reminder of Russia's persistent pressure for a Big Four foreign ministers' meeting.

The Communist Daily Worker also assailed the plan Dulles presented at Friday's session of the arms talks.

Despite the general feeling that the Red reaction dimmed hopes for an effective disarmament agreement, authoritative sources said Dulles himself is optimistic about the prospects.

They said he feels the Communist propaganda barrage means merely that the Russians are "marking time" while they consider the new plan. It may be weeks before a definitive Soviet reply is received, these sources said.

Dulles left for home Friday night, shortly after the conference adjourned for the week end. "Disarmament Secretary" Harold E. Stassen will explain details of the new plan when the talks resume Tuesday.

Teamsters in Threat to Pull Out of AFL-CIO

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Teamsters' Union began lining up support today for an apparent attack on the prestige and leadership of AFL-CIO President George Meany.

Back of the move was Teamster Vice President James R. Hoffa, next in line for the presidency of the 1,500,000-member trucking union.

The Teamsters Friday threatened to pull out of the AFL-CIO unless there are major changes in Meany's program to end jurisdictional disputes between the building trades unions and the industrial unions.

The Hoffa-led drive to discredit Meany's efforts will come at a convention of the AFL-CIO Building Trades Department opening Monday in Atlantic City, N.J.

Revolt Appeal Planned

Hoffa, one of five Teamster delegates, will appeal to the old AFL building trades leaders to join the Teamsters' revolt against the peace agreement for settling inter-union disputes.

The agreement was drawn up by a committee of building trade and industrial union leaders with Meany acting as chairman. It provides that new construction work should be done by the craft-type building unions while production and maintenance jobs should fall to unions organized on plant-wide lines. Roving peace teams would settle disputes on the spot.

The Teamsters contend the agreement favors industrial unions. They will offer a resolution at the convention prepared by the Teamster Building Council in Detroit—Hoffa's stronghold. The resolution says the Teamsters support the AFL-CIO merger but adds:

"We are not prepared to pay the high price tag that the ultimate product apparently now carries."

Decline "Lambs" Role

The Teamsters will ask the building trades department to advise Meany that construction unions do not intend to become "sacrificial lambs" because of the labor merger.

"We are not going to voluntarily urge our memberships to commit job suicide without a clear understanding on jurisdiction with those contesting for his self-same jurisdiction, patently within our traditional rights," the proposed resolution says.

Labor sources view the Teamsters move as a power play by Hoffa, an attempt to force a wedge between Meany and the building trade leaders.

These sources also said the Teamsters, under fire from the AFL-CIO on curruption charges, may use the jurisdiction issue as an excuse to leave the federation instead of facing expulsion for failure to clean house.

Brickner Delays Channel Attempt

Brickner, 45, of Charlerol, was forced to postpone an attempt scheduled to start last. midnight because of a high wind and rough water.

"It's a bad wind and should last another two days, at least," Brickner said. "I expect to start on Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday."

Brickner said he was "rarin" to go," and had "all the confidence in the world" he could make it across the channel.

"I've waited for this since I was a little boy," he added.

Masontown Murder Suspect May Be in Canada

MASONTOWN, Pa. (UP) — Joseph Watreas, 27, prime suspect in the slaying of an 80-year-old storekeeper, may be in Canada, his wife said Friday.

"Joe has a relative who owns a farm in Canada and he often expressed a desire to go there," Mrs. Joseph Watreas said.

Watreas, a mine maintenance worker and former Masontown High School football star, is wanted in connection with the strangling of Alvin O. Partridge, grocery store operator here. Partridge's body was found in his store last Monday morning with two lengths of dynamite detonating wire encircling his neck.

James Edie, Fayette County detective chief, said Watreas left town last Monday. He said a footprint found on Partridge's shirt, and on a back porch of his store, matched those of a pair of mining boots owned by Watreas.

Authorities also said Watreas's car was reported seen in front of the store the day of the murder.

Mrs. Watreas said she was certain her husband had nothing to do with Partridge's death.

"I don't think it is possible that Joe could do such a thing," she said.

Ask Dio Parole to Testify Before Probe

WASHINGTON (UP) — Senate investigators arranged today for Johnny Dio and three other convicted labor racketeers to be sprung from their cells long enough to testify on their links with James R. Hoffa, sole candidate for the presidency of the Teamsters Union.

General Sessions Judge John A. Mullen ruled in New York that Dio and his three henchmen should be paroled to face the Senate's questions about racket exploitation of low - paid Puerto Rican and Negro workers in the nation's largest city. They are due back behind bars the day after they testify.

Judge Sets Timetable

Mullen's original order set this timetable·

—Dio, friend of Hoffa and the Teamster vice president's alleged ally in a drive to clamp a stranglehold on East Coast transportation, will be paroled Wednesday in custody of his attorney, for testimony Thursday. He is also under indictment in the acid blinding of labor columnist Victor Riesel.

—Samuel Goldstein, president of a Teamsters local, will be released for Thursday testimony.

Britain to Send Armed Forces To Persian Gulf

BAHREIN, Persian Gulf (UP) —Britain announced today it is sending infantry and armor to join loyal forces grouping for an attack on rebels in nearby Oman.

Air Vice Marshal (Maj. Gen.) L F. Sinclair said a "limited number" of Cameronian Highlanders, supported by armored-car units of the 1519th Hussars, will take part in a joint attack on rebel-held Nizwa.

Ntwspapers in London said advance units of the British force are camped at Ft. Ibri, along with British-officered units of the Trucial Scouts and other forces loyal to the Sultan of Muscat and Oman.

The rebels had claimed Ibri was surrounded.

British jet fighters have been blasting rebel positions in the remote Persian Gulf Sultanate for more than two weeks, but British ground forces had not previously entered the conflict.

"We are now ready to take the next step — the re-entry of the Sultan's forces into Oman and particularly into Nizwa," Sinclair said. "We propose to use a limited number of British forces to assist the Muscat army and the Trucial Scouts."

Washington Co. Asked to Share Damage Expenses

The State Highway Department has asked Washington County to share in land damages connected with converting the "Express Highway" to limited access.

State representatives met this week with the County Commissioners to make the request. They estimated the total cost of converting the highway at $1,035,000.

This money would be used to construct secondary roads and as a reimbursement for homes and businesses already constructed on the completed sections of the highway from Speers to Washington.

The sections of the highway now under construction are being built as limited access so there will be no new damage problems.

Of the more than million dollars estimated, the federal government is expected to assume 90 per cent of the damage. That will leave the state with a burden just in excess of $100,000. It is this amount that the state is asking the county to share.

'Gas War' Now Spreads to Donora

A "gas war" which got its start in Monessen last week has now spread to other sections of the Monongahela Valley.

Donora gasoline dealers yesterday reduced their prices to compete with other valley dealers.

Prices dropped six cents a gallon motor gasoline, reducing the price to 23.9 cents.

The price on high-test was also dropped to prices ranging from 27.9 to 31.9 cents per gallon depending on the grade.

Monessen's Co. D Heads for Camp

Monessen's Company D, 110th Infantry, left early this morning for the annual two-week encampment of the 8th Infantry Division, Pennsylvania National Guard, at Indiantown Gap.

The local unit, under the command of Capt. Harry B. Davis, of Donora, boarded two chartered buses at 6 a. m.

Making the trip were 50 enlisted men and five officers.

Union Leaders Appear Cool to Hoffa's Suggestion

By UNITED PRESS

Union and industrial leaders in transportation fields today were for the most part wary of a proposal by Teamster Vice President James R. Hoffa to merge all transportation workers into a mammoth union.

But a small number described the proposal in terms ranging from "wonderful" to "ridiculous." The comments came in a United Press survey.

Hoffa, recently acquitted on charges he conspired to plant a spy on the Senate Rackets Committee and apparently assured of the Teamster presidency at the union's September elections, said in San Francisco Thursday the merger would be one of his prime objectives.

Grouped under the nationwide federation would be the nation's truckers, longshoremen, and railway, steamship and airline employes.

Rt. 837 Detour Is Extended

A detour on Rt. 837, between Fisher Heights and Donora, will be extended another 10 days, it was announced today.

The road was closed to through traffic about a month ago when earth fill was started on the old highway trestle over Pittsburgh Railway tracks.

That job is finished, Construction Engineer G. R. Brady said today, but work by a gas company now is delaying operations.

"The gas men ran into trouble with a tough core of sandstone," Brady said.

"They are having considerable difficulty and our contractor can not proceed until they are out of there."

House Battle Expected On Civil Rights Changes

WASHINGTON (UP) — A bitter House battle over jury trials shaped up today even before the Senate has passed its version of the controversial civil rights bill.

At stake is the question of whether Congress passes any civil rights bill, and if it does whether President Eisenhower will veto it.

The Senate, working with unemotional speed, Friday finished work on its sharply-modified version of the House - approved administration civil rights bill. It put off a final vote until next week—probably Wednesday.

No Filibuster Planned

While more speeches will be made the southern Democratic bloc abandoned thoughts of a filibuster—long the graveyard of civil rights measures in the Senate — with adoption of the jury trial amendment.

The next big question is what the House will do about Senate changes in the bill, particularly the jury trial amendment added by the Senate. This provides for jury trials in criminal contempt cases brought under the bill's voting rights provision, but not for civil contempt.

Eisenhower denounced the amendment so strongly Friday it led to belief he might veto the bill if it reaches him in its Senate shape.

Ike, Knowland Meet

Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland (Calif.) was invited to breakfast with Eisenhower at the White House this morning presumably to talk over the situation resulting from Senate approval of the jury trial amendment.

The President said Friday the amendment would "make largely ineffective" the bill's machinery to protect Negro voting rights, which he called "the basic purpose of this bill." He also charged, in one of his strongest attacks on any legislation thus far, that the amendment would "weaken our whole judicial system."

County Democrats To Select Judge Nominee Today

The executive body of the Westmoreland County Democratic Party met this afternoon at the Penn Albert Hotel in Greensburg to vote on the party's third nominee for common pleas court judge in the November general election.

The committee, made up of a a chairman and vice-chairman of each of the county's 63 municipalities, was to make a choice from among six candidates: David H. Weiss, of Monessen; Paul W. Mahady, of Latrobe; John K Best, of Jeannette; Vincent Williams, of Greensburg; Joseph Loughran, also of Greensburg, and James L. McWherter, of Derry.

The committee met to select a candidate to fill the vacancy created by the death of Judge George H. McWherter last April.

As of noon today, party leaders had not made public their choice, stating it is "in the hands of the committee."

Reports circulating around the courthouse in Greensburg the past week said the race will be among Weiss, Best and Mahady. Other reports have McWherter, a nephew of the deceased judge, as a "sure" winner.

Loughran, who split with the courthouse Democratic leaders last December and ran as an unsuccessful independent Democrat for judge in the May 21 primary, has been preferred by some Democrats because of his strong showing in the primary.

Uniontown Man Killed by Car; Friends Saved

BUTLER, Pa. (UP)—August Sabel, 37, of 68 Snyder Terrace, Uniontown, Pa., was killed by an automobile early today as he walked along Route 356, seven miles south of here.

Before he was struck, Sabel shouted a warning to two friends walking behind him and they leaped to safety.

The driver of the car, Thomas B. Stroud, 25, of 629 Oakwood Plabe, Tarentum, Pa., was ordered held for an inquest.

State police said Sabel had driven to Grove City with Mrs. Eleanor Romesburg, 42, of 70 Snyder Terrace, Uniontown, to get her son, Charles, 15, who had been staying there.

Eight miles north of Butler their car broke down and they took a bus to Grove City. After picking up the boy they returned by bus to Butler. All three got off the bus at Butler and started walking along the highway south, facing traffic.

They had walked seven miles when Sabel was struck.

Fayette Co. Man Escapes Prison

BELLEFONTE, Pa. (UP) — Smith G. Hudson, 29, Smithfield, RD2, Fayette County, escaped Friday night from Rockview Penitentiary where he had been serving a sentence for murder.

Prison officials said Hudson was working with a maintenance crew repairing an ash conveyor at the prison boiler house and slipped off during a change of shifts. The boiler house is outside the stockade.

Hudson pleaded guilty to the shotgun slaying of John Ferguson at Morris Crossroads, near Point Marion, Fayette County, June 23, 1951. He was sentenced March 1, 1952, by the late Judge Vance Cottom to 10 to 20 years for second degree murder.

Hudson was wearing prison garb when he escaped.

Fired City Patrolman Seeks Help from FOP

The Monongahela Valley Chapter of the Fraternal Order of Police last night voted to consider a request to supply financial assistance for ex-Patrolman Philip Panepinto in his battle to contest his firing as a policeman by Monessen City Council.

Panepinto was dismissed from the local force on July 12 after a hearing before Council. His ouster came after Mayor Hugo J. Parente charged him with failure to make hourly calls to police headquarters and "sleeping on duty."

At the hearing before Council, Panepinto did not deny the first charge entirely. But he denied the "sleeping on duty" charge, stating he "was not sleeping but relaxing" when seen in a parked taxicab by Lt. Joseph Reday.

The FOP called the special meeting last night at the request of Panepinto and his attorneys, Peter Demas and Louis Manderino, both of Monessen. They asked the FOP to supply $150 in financial aid to appeal Panepinto's firing in Westmoreland County courts.

The FOP withheld a final decision on the request pending an investigation of Panepinto's eligibility to receive such financial aid. Rules of the organization state that a member must attend at least six meetings a year to qualify as a member of good standing and receive any of the group's benefits.

Chief of Police Michael Kuvinka, treasurer of the FOP, and Lt. Algie Link, secretary, and four other Monessen policemen attended last night's meeting. Kuvinka, who initiated the charges against Panepinto, said today that he did not vote on the issue because "I question Panepinto's eligibility."

Kuvinka said he will not "sign any checks for Panepinto until I am certain he is eligible."

Twenty-three of the FOP's 100 members attended the meeting.

Ceylon Balks at New Ambassador

COLOMBO, Ceylon (UP)—Newspapers here dubbed the U.S. ambassador-designate to Ceylon "I-don't-know Gluck" today and suggested he would do well not to accept his post here.

The press in Colombo has been extremely critical of ambassador-designate Maxwell H. Gluck ever since he revealed in an interview that he did not know the name of Ceylon's Premier Solomon West Ridgeway Dais Bandaranaike.

Public discussion of Gluck's merits reached the highest levels Friday. U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles told a television interviewer in London that if America were to limit its selection of envoys to Ceylon to those who knew Bandaranaike's name "we would have a very limited choice."

U. S. Ambassador's Withdrawal from Cuba Suggested

HAVANA (UP)—The government bloc in Congress demanded today that the United States recall Ambassador Earl E. T. Smith from Cuba because his "interference in this country's affairs' makes him a "disturbing agent."

A bill introduced Friday by pro-government Sen. Ernesto Rosell crystallized official indignation over Smith's comment that the police precautions he found in rebel-infested Santiago were "repugnant."

Smith's comments during a tour of eastern Cuba were made on the eve of a new outbreak of anti-government violence in the area. The army announced Friday night that 15 persons have been killed and four wounded in the area this week in the heaviest fighting in weeks.

A special joint session of Congress Friday night approved President Fulgencio Batista's decree suspending civil rights in Cuba for 45 days by a vote of 123-11.

The attacks on the ambassador drew quick response from Washington, where Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.) said Friday night the Senate Foreign Relations Committee may call on Secretary of State John Foster Dulles to explain Smith's conduct.

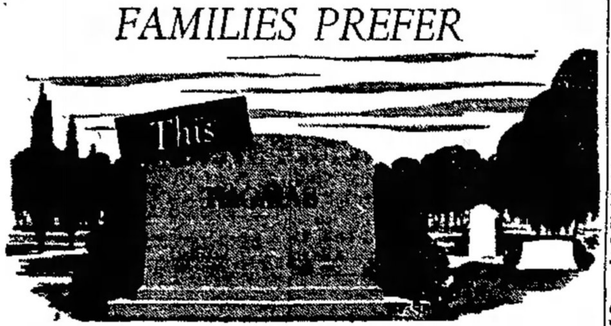
NINE OUT OF TEN FAMILIES PREFER



The Traditional Monument Cemetery

Most Americans select their family burial plots in traditional cemeteries that allow them the privilege of erecting a monument of marble or granite. Forever beautiful, always visible, it is not only an eternal tribute to the Dead, but an inspiration to the living.

The Cemetery that Forbids Monuments

The park plan cemetery permits only flush metal markers. Devoid of distinction, subject to corrosion, covered with leaves in the Fall and snow in the Winter, the family plot so marked is difficult to find, suffers from monotony. Moreover, for what it costs to mark the average non-monument cemetery plot with individual flat metal markers, you can purchase a beautiful monument of granite or marble.

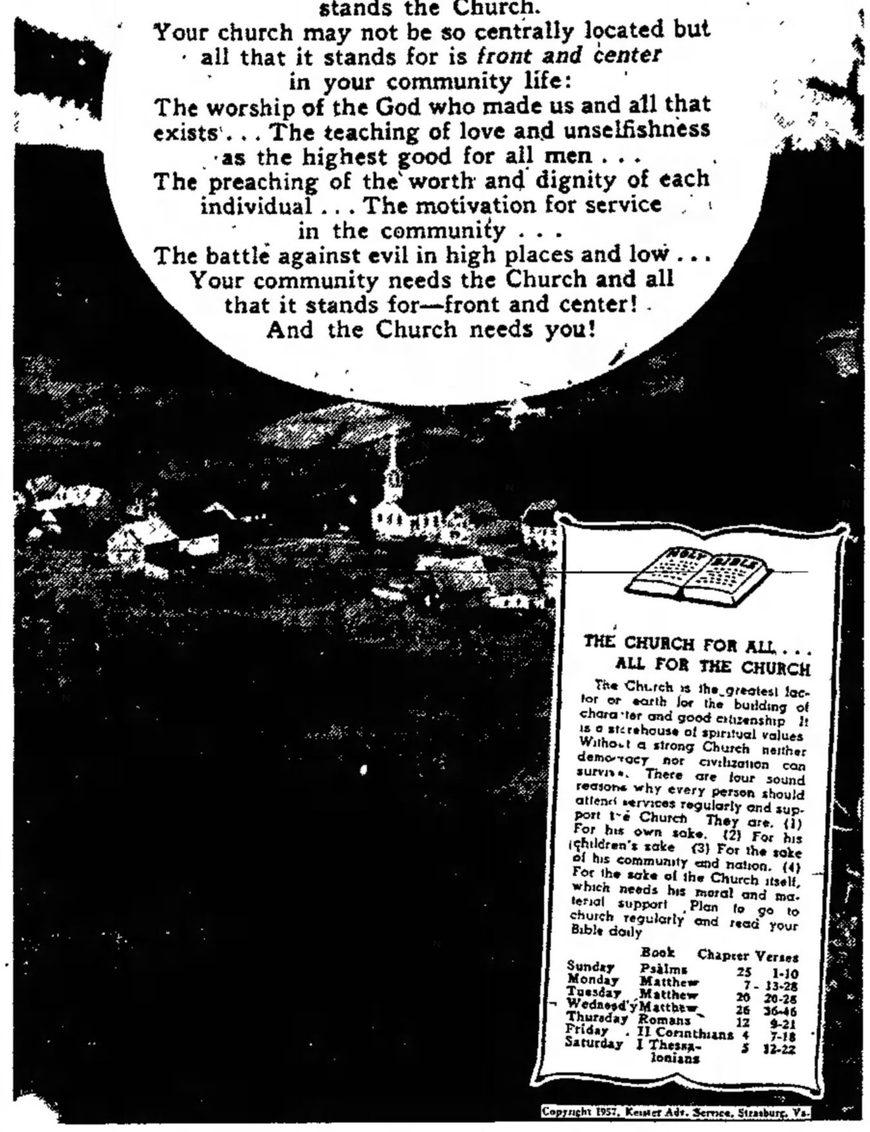
FRONT and CENTER!

Front and center in this little community stands the Church.
Your church may not be so centrally located but all that it stands for is front and center in your community life:
The worship of the God who made us and all that exists . . . The teaching of love and unselfishness as the highest good for all men . . .
The preaching of the worth and dignity of each individual . . . The motivation for service in the community . . .
The battle against evil in high places and low . . .
Your community needs the Church and all that it stands for—front and center!
And the Church needs you!



THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are. (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Rioting Utah Prisoners Stage Brief Uprising

POINT OF THE MOUNTAIN, Utah (UP) — Inmates at the Utah State Prison staged their second riot in six months Friday night, holding 15 visiting woman band members and four others hostage during the brief uprising.

Prison guards carrying sawed-off shotguns and .38 caliber pistols riot and the prisoners gave no motives.

Prison guards carrying sawed-o shotguns and .38 caliber pistols threatened to rush the rioters and the disturbance ended abruptly.

All of the hostages, including three prison officials, were released unharmed from the auditorium, only section affected by the riot. The women were calm and left shortly thereafter to fill another engagement.

Riots Unrelated

Deputy Warden John Turner said Friday night's disturbance apparently was not connected with a riot at the Point of the Mountain prison last Feb. 7 or a riot at Montana State Prison at Deer Lodge, Mont. earlier this week.

However, he admitted that "four or five" of the convicts who were responsible for Friday night's brief disturbance also were ringleaders of the February riot.

"It was strictly a spontaneous disturbance," Turner said. He emphasized that "only a handful" of the institution's 551 inmates participated in the riot and that "most of the convicts were against it. They were particularly opposed to holding the women as hostages."

No prison property was damaged and the rioters were confined to the auditorium.

Two Different Attempts

Hostages taken were 15 women and one man who were members of the "Kitchen Rhythmettes", a band from Price, Utah, and the three prison officials.

Rioters first tried to grab corridor officer Reed Smith of Draper, but he and other officers quelled the outburst temporarily.

But 30 minutes later the convicts broke into the prison recreation room to get baseball bats and knives, then stormed into the auditorium.

Turner said prison guards handled the riot themselves and no help was needed from outside law enforcement officers.

Religious Sect Has Open House

The Society of Brothers is holding open house this afternoon at its new location at the former Gorley's Lake Hotel, near Uniontown.

The open house will be held until 6 p.m. and will give visitors an opportunity to inspect the communal living of the Society.

Eberhard Arnold, Society leader, said the community members are anxious to get acquainted with area residents and have them learn the Society's way of living and activities.

Brief talks describing the Society's beliefs, and songs and plays by youngsters will be presented.

Belle Vernon Boy Put on Probation

An unidentified Belle Vernon boy was placed on probation yesterday by Fayette County Judge Eustace H. Bane.

The boy allegedly entered the home of his employer while she was absent and stole a .38 Colt revolver.

Defense Attorneys Plan Meeting in Sheppard Case

CLEVELAND (UP) — William J. Corrigan, chief defense counsel for Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard, said today he will confer with other defense attorneys Monday to decide the next move in the revived investigation of Marilyn Sheppard's murder.

Corrigan disclosed his plans on his return from Deland, Fla., where he obtained a written "confession" to the murder of Mrs. Sheppard from Donald J. Wedler, 23.

Corrigan declined to say whether he believes the Florida convict committed the murder.

But he said he was "satisfied that I have a signed confession by an intelligent man."

"He states facts that I am compelled to move on," said Corrigan. "He says he committed the crime."

The attorney said the action he will take depends on a conference with Fred W. Garmone and Arthur Petersilge, the other defense attorneys. He also indicated he might telephone Lt. Gov. Paul M. Herbert in London.

Herbert joined the defense staff after Sheppard was convicted of second degree murder in the death of his wife.

Whatever is decided, Corrigan said, Sheppard will have a "long, hard row to hoe" before he might be released from prison.

Many Japanese Lose Jobs When Americans Leave

TOKYO (UP)—Japanese "satisfaction" over the announced withdrawal of United States ground forces from Japan was tempered today by the economic problems it will bring.

The Asahi Evening News reported more than 66,000 Japanese employed by the security forces would be thrown out of work.

Thousands of others working in bars, cabarets, souvenir shops, tailoring and dressmaking establishments, laundries, hotels and other small businesses also will feel the absence of the free-spending GIs.

Not all the American servicemen will leave Japan under the new order. Some 80,000 U.S. Navy and Air Force personnel and their supply units will remain and offset some of the loss suffered by the leaving ground forces.

Connellsville Begins Drive for Industry

Plan 'Open House' Tomorrow For Veteran Perry Physician

Grateful residents of Perryopolis will gather tomorrow to pay tribute to Dr. Russell Kamerer, who has been practicing medicine in the community for 50 years.

His family and countless friends have arranged an "open house" celebration at the Kamerer home in Perryopolis for tomorrow from 2 to 5 p. m. and 7 to 9 p. m.

The 78-general practitioner, who says he has been "chasing over these hills for a long time," plans to bring his running down to a trot and begin "taking it easy."

He arrived in Perryopolis shortly after his graduation from the University of Pittsburgh in 1907. And he has been in and around the town since.

He married Faye Hamilton, of Shiloh, Ohio, the same year. Later they had two daughters, Roenna and Newana, who are planning the affair for tomorrow.

Residents of Perryopolis have been keeping him stepping "ever since 1907," the doctor said with a grin. As close as he can figure, he has delivered some 3,000 babies — and "most of them are still healthy," he said.

He recalled the flu epidemic that hit Perryopolis back in 1918, when most of the 2,500 men employed at the Pittsburgh Co. Coal mine were stricken. He and another doctor, he stated, worked around the clock for nearly 10 weeks.

Prior to attending Pitt, Dr. Kamerer, a native of Butler County, graduated from Duff's Business College and Grove City College.

Despite his busy schedule, Dr. Kamerer, over the years, found time to become an active member of the Fayette County Medical Society, Keystone Camping Club and various civic organizations. He is also a member of the Perryopolis Methodist Church and Syria Temple Shrine.

Until recently, he had been an avid hunter and fisherman.

He said his 50 years as a physician in Perryopolis have been pleasant onces.

Tomorrow he will accept the greetings of Perryopolis residents, many of whom he brought into the world.

Pittsburgh Cop Dismissed by Trial Board

PITTSBURGH (UP)—A police trial board voted unanimously Friday to dismiss Patrolman Leo Reilly, 28, the fifth policeman fired in less than three weeks.

Reilly was ousted for failing to explain satisfactorily how a police ambulance driven by his partner, James McLaughlin, became damaged. McLaughlin, adjudged under the influence of liquor by a police physician, resigned from the force this week.

Three officers were recommended for discharge July 15 for failing to recognize rackets figure Tony Grosso and permitting him to be booked under a false name. Another patrolman was dismissed Thursday on charges of leaving his post for a tour of taverns.

Reilly served five years on the force and built up a good record. He was pronounced sober following the episode in which a fender on the police ambulance was discovered damaged.

appearance. Hoffa said his subpena was for Aug. 13, but such a document must bear some definite date which can be changed later.

McClellan told reporters that testimony Friday disclosed "perfectly obvious" racketeering in New York. Witnesses told how contracts with Dio - Hoffa union locals called for only the legal minimum wage of $1 an hour—or less—and gave no benefits to many Negro and Puerto Rican workers who often did not even know they were union members.

The committee charged that employers connived with racketeers to sign these "sweetheart" contracts which kept wages low and warded off legitimate unions.

Pastoral Symphony

PENTWATER, Mich. (UP) — Dairyman Claire W. Nelson says the radio blaring in his barn conditions his cattle to frightening noises and strangers. "I keep it on so the cows will hear all sorts of noises—from women's screams and gunshots to rock 'n' roll," Nelson said. "Then when a stranger comes into the barn, they aren't upset because they've heard everything on the radio."

Hollywood Stars May Testify in 'Confidential' Case

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — An all-star cast of Hollywood personalities waited in the wings today for the resumption of the libel-conspiracy trial of Confidential and Whisper magazines which began with the hint that their testimonies might be spicy revelations.

The court action began Friday with actors Tab Hunter, Buddy Baer and Allan Nixon—a few of the some 100 top movie stars subpenaed to testify—evident in the jam-packed Los Angeles Superior courtroom.

Others were Mrs. Josephine Dillon Gable, drama coach and first wife of actor Clark Gable, and Carol S. Hunt, who said she was the author of a Confidential story entitled, "I Was One of Father Devine's Angels."

The stars were put on a two-hour call status while attorneys for the state and the defense began the job of selecting a jury from a panel of 50.

When the court adjourned until Monday morning, 11 panelists had been excused from serving and 12 had been tentatively accepted, but the prosecution had yet to make its examination of the panel.

District Liquor Licenses Suspended

The state Liquor Control Board today ordered the suspension of licenses at two district establishments, effective August 27.

Handed 20-day suspensions were:

John and Josephine Bitonti, Johnny's Bar, 132 Main St., Belle Vernon, premitted minors to frequent licensed premises and sales to minors;

And the club liquor license of the Loyal Order of Moose, California Lodge No. 132, 149 Wood St., California, sales between 3 a. m. and 7 a.m.

Sentence McKees Rocks Brothers To Electric Chair

ATLANTA (UP) — Michael and George Krull, McKees Rocks, Pa., brothers, were sentenced Friday to die in the electric chair next Aug. 21 for kidnapping and raping a middle-aged spinster in 1955.

The brothers, following suicide attempts Thursday, stood before Judge Frank A. Hooper pale and weak. They were in handcuffs and waist chains and surrounded by police.

Michael, in a 15-minute conversation with Judge Hooper, maintained he had been convicted illegally.

"I don't mind dying," he said," "But I am dying illegally. I didn't touch that woman in the government park."

The federal government claimed jurisdiction in the case because the crime occurred in the Chickamauga National Park in Georgia. The brothers will be electrocuted in the Georgia State Prison at Reidsdale.

British Preachers Need More 'Zip', Says Pittsburgher

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Preachers in England and Scotland need more zip in their sermons, a young Pittsburgh minister said yesterday.

Their trouble is, Bruce Thielemann, 24, said "they are invisible all week and incomprehensible on Sunday."

Thielemann, who returned here two weeks ago after a year abroad on a Rotary Foundation scholarship, said sermons "were always on some fine technical point of theology."

"They had nothing to do with an average man's life or the life of a man they might meet on the street," he said.

He said there is a "terrific demand" for American preachers in the two countries.

"Any American preacher would do well, but a man like Billy Graham does fantastically well."

Thielemann, assistant minister to youth at Mt. Lebanon Presbyterian Church, said country preachers were close to their congregations "but in the cities the churches had no program for youth, nothing to bring in new blood."

"If you suggest something different," he said, "It's always met with a remark like, 'that's never been done before' or 'we just don't do that.'"

Charges Traffic Ticket 'Fixing' In Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH (UP) — The state auditor general has charged there is "substantial fixing" of traffic tickets in Pittsburgh.

The charge was contained in a letter from Auditor General Charles C. Smith to Mayor David L. Lawrence. In the letter, Smith said the city failed to send the Commonwealth $3,225 in June "mandatory" fines as provided by the Motor Vehicle Code.

The city administration quickly replied in an answering letter that a check for June fines was in the mail.

Traffic Court Magistrate Julius J. Strba wrote Smith he "regrets" the delay and said the amount was $3,323 and not $3 223.

City Solicitor J. Frank McKenna also pointed out that fines under the state code are not mandatory as Smith claimed and may be suspended.

U. S. Military Man Is Deeply Dug in at Most European Bases

(This is the last in a series by the United Press military affairs writer on European defenses.)

By CHARLES CORDDRY

PARIS (UP) — The American military man looks very much as if he has carved himself a permanent niche in Europe.

All told, there are some 355,000 of them.

They help guard the free world's ramparts from England to Turkey, from Germany to the Mediterranean, and spill over into Africa.

With them they brought probably 250,000 family members, including at least 54,000 youngsters who are enrolled in service - run schools and learning at least one new language.

The American tourist, sitting in a cafe on the Champs Elysees watching other American tourists go by, has hardly an inkling of how deeply dug-in are his countrymen who came here to join in Europe's defense.

The tourists spent 427 million dollars on this side of the Atlantic in one recent year. The U.S. Air Force alone pumped out 728 million dollars the same year, including 153 million dollars of airmen's personal paychecks. It's customary to consider the tourist dollar indispensable. The military dollar would be even more so.

Incidents Rate Low

Nobody ever tried harder than the American GI to be liked and get along. Military base - local community councils abound to help out. It seems to work.

The rate of incidents — run-ins with local civilians which reach police attention—is .25 per 1,000 men per month for the Air Force and .78 for the 7th U.S. Army. Traffic accidents are not included in these totals.

The crime rate, according to 7th Army commander Lt. Gen. Bruce C. Clarke, is less than in Washington, D.C.

"What're you doing about it in Washington?" he asks, challengingly.

It cost one billion dollars to create Clarke's army. The annual going rate is $1,200,000,000 of which 180 million is the locally-spent payroll.

The Air Force in Europe is a $4,300,000,000 outfit. Two-fifths of that investment is paid in German occupation marks and not by the U.S. taxpayer.

The Air Force flies 22 types of aircraft at 425 installations in 13 countries over an area five times that of the United States. It employs 2,600 American civilians and 33,000 "native sons." It has 17,600 persons enrolled in university extension courses. Every airman learns one foreign language, at least that's the law.

There are 150 self - supporting theaters for airmen. There are 200 base soccer teams.

It isn't always easy, this community relations.

Take a little town, where air bases usually are found. Papa can't get into the local theater—too jammed with airmen. He finds his pub crowded. First thing he knows, there's a juke box.

There is no status - of - forces agreement with West Germany. The military has full authority over its own people. But, says Clarke, there has never been a case where Germans objected.

Teenagers? He's had trouble with only 11 in 13 months. They and their parents are home now, in America.

The Navy's situation is simpler. It has no bases over here . . . just dozens of ports of call. Sailors sometimes are forced to spend a whole week end in such meccas as Palma de Majorca!

Of the 355,000 Americans, sailors comprise just 25,000. The U.S. Army in Europe has 250,000, the Air Force 80,000.

Today in Congress—

Congress May Probe Ambassador's Remarks

WASHINGTON (UP)—Congress may launch an investigation into statements attributed to the new U.S. ambassador in revolt-torn Cuba.

Remarks allegedly made by Ambassador Earl E. T. Smith provoked angry outbursts from Cuban officials and demands for his ouster for "interference" in the internal affairs of Cuba.

Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.) said the Senate Foreign Relations Committee may summon Secretary of State John Foster Dulles to explain the alleged remarks of Smith, a New York investment banker who stepped into his first diplomatic post just 11 days ago.

News dispatches from Cuba report that Smith accused Cuban police of "excessive" and "abhorrent" action in breaking up a demonstration against President Fulgencia Batista. He also is reported to have said he would give "sympathetic consideration" to a petition that the United States halt shipments of arms to the Cuban government.

Mansfield, a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, said Dulles will be asked to testify if the reports are proven correct. In event Dulles cannot appear, Mansfield said, Undersecretary of State Christian A. Herter will be called.

Other congressional news:

Civil Rights: A bitter battle appeared in store in the House over Senate changes in the civil rights bill. The Senate finished work on the bill Friday but put off a final vote until next week. House Republican leaders hoped to strengthen voting rights provisions, but Democrats apparently wanted the Senate version as is.

Postal: Congressmen got behind a new move to get House action on the administration's postage rate increase bill and the administration-opposed pay raise for 950,000 government white collar workers. Democratic Leader John W. McCormack said both bills will be brought up in the House next week if they are cleared by the House Rules Committee. Chairman Tom Murray (D-Tenn.) of the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee said he will urge the rules group early next week to consider sending the measures to the floor.

Look, One Hand!

A WORD of caution for week-end drivers. It may be false confidence born of power steering, it may be an attempt to relax during long periods behind the wheel, it may be boredom or just unadulterated showing off. Whatever the reason, more and more drivers cut in and out of traffic on the highways with the right arm draped over the back of the seat, left hand alone on the wheel.

These aren't the drivers who have the distraction of a girl cuddled on their right shoulder, although some may be practicing for that. They are counterparts of drivers who use their left hands seemingly to hold up — or down — the tops of their cars.

Driving with one hand may be free of serious risk under perfect conditions. But what experienced driver would say he can be certain of perfect conditions in the next few seconds?

A blow-out, a child darting out from a driveway, the unpredictable "other" driver — any of these require both hands on the wheel. Under these circumstances it would take one of these lackadaisaical drivers at least a half-second to get both hands on the wheel. In that time, at a normal driving speed his car can travel 30 feet or more before he can have full control of the situation.

With power steering or without, on tiring drives, when engaged in conversation, or any time at the wheel of an automobile, driving is a two-handed job.

They Miss the Point

THE DEMAND for government economy has been unusually intense this year, but it doesn't appear we will see a great deal of it, for Congress has missed the point of how it can be accomplished.

Why should the outlook be so black? For one thing the very record-breaking size of the administration budget, largest in peacetime history, made it a discouraging instrument to tackle. For another there are still the high-powered pressures by various groups for all manner of pet projects. For still another the continuing inflation keeps everything tilted upward.

The really dominant reason, however, is the failure of Congress to recognize that no significant economy will be possible until the size and the scope of government are whittled, until the government actually quits doing some of the things it is now engaged in.

As long as Congress is satisfied to nibble at federal programs instead of completely eliminating some areas of activity, then we will have nibbling budget reductions instead of the effective economy which we need.

In sum, what Congress has done, knowingly or otherwise, is to accept the premise that we must have ever-expanding super-government, and then to consider a few comparatively minor cuts here and there. That being Congress' attitude, it is inevitable that the results will be negligible. Not until the size of government is reduced and kept reduced will we have a materially reduced budget and tax burden.

Higher Authority

WHAT PRAYER is and how to use it is something everyone comes to decide for himself. The Lord is asked via prayer to bring rain, hold back the flood, win football games, forgive sin and strike down the enemy. It had to come, we suppose, but it was still a little startling to read that the mailmen want the Lord to get them a raise.

The House has passed a bill providing increased wages for postal workers. President Eisenhower has made it clear he is opposed to the bill in its present form, and it looks like it might not have clear sailing in the Senate either.

The head of the letter carriers union suggested prayer meetings as a powerful method of appeal. As a result there is a real prayer campaign underway, with support of some of the clergy of all faiths.

Now mailmen in prayer are certainly in no mischief, and far be it from us to suggest that the prayer meeting is not a more desirable device than the strike. But at the risk of being labeled a complete skeptic, we offer the opinion the Lord will not register as a lobbyist for the mail carriers.

Mahomet went to the mountain. Those not near the mountains now install air conditioning.

Merry-Go-Round—

Claims Politics Entered into Drought Relief

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — If you want to see how politics is played by Secretary Benson and his boys regarding drought relief, take a look at the official figures issued by the Department of Agriculture.

Mr. Pearson

They show that in election years relief to the drought-stricken states zoomed way up. In non-election years, drought relief dropped way down.

Here are the figures: In 1954, a Congressional election year, the feed program to disaster areas was 58,221,373 hundredweight of feed. The hay program cost the Treasury $9,900,000.

Next year, 1955, was a non-election year. Benson's boys apparently weren't too much worried about drought. In that year the feed program dropped from 58,000,000 cwt. to only 15,101,799 cwt. of feed. The hay program dropped from almost $10,000,000 to only $100,000.

The next year, 1956, however, was the big election year to put Ike back in office. In that year, the feed program zoomed way up again, even higher than in the last election year. It topped 70,780,961 cwt. of feed. The hay program doubled 1954 with a total of $18,944,500.

But that wasn't all. There was discrimination between certain states which were for Ike and those not for Ike. Senator Symington, Democrat of Missouri, has pointed out that, although Missouri suffered probably more than any other state from the drought, it failed to get drought relief. There was little difference between Missouri and Kansas, as far as the drought was concerned, but a great deal of difference politically.

Just across the border in Kansas they voted for Eisenhower. East of the border in Missouri, they voted for Adlai Stevenson. Missouri was the only middle west state which voted for Stevenson and which also has two Democratic Senators.

It happened that two governors of Missouri applied for drought relief, one a Republican, the other a Democrat, but Missouri was not put on the disaster list of states. Kansas was, but Missouri wasn't. Sometimes politics pays.

Bigotry Doesn't Pay

In the closing days of last year's Colorado race between ex-Gov. Dan Thornton, close friend of President Eisenhower, and ex-Congressman John Carroll for the Senate, an anonymous campaign circular appeared in Denver attacking Catholic candidates on the Democratic ticket, including Carroll who is a Protestant but married to a Catholic.

U. S. Attorney Donald E. Kelley issued a warrant for the arrest of Clarence W. Stafford, former Republican city Councilman and close friend of Dan Thornton's. Stafford was arraigned the day before election and charged with violating a Federal statute which prohibits anonymous campaign literature.

On Election Day, the literature boomeranged. Three out of the four candidates attacked in the circular were elected. Dan Thornton, who never lost a state-wide race before, was defeated by Carroll by a margin of 3,000 votes — a defeat that gave the Democrats control of the Senate, 49 to 47.

Sequel: The other day Stafford and E. Page Wingate quietly slipped into Federal Court in Denver and admitted responsibility for the circulars. They pleaded guilty. Bigotry doesn't pay in American politics.

It's amazing how far the natural gas Congressmen will go to barter votes for the gas bill. The backstage dealing has already begun.

Congressman Oren Harris of Arkansas, who's determined to ram the bill through Congress, has devised a neat piece of bait for southeast Congressmen. They are anxious to pass a little-notice textile bill which would duplicate the Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939 by requiring the contents of cotton and synthetic fabrics to be identified in labels and advertising. This would also require "reprocessed" cotton to be clearly marked when used a second time in clothing and other products.

The textile bill was written by Rep. Frank Smith of Mississippi, who figures it will boost sales of cotton fiber and fabrics. Smith has let it be known that if Harris of Arkansas will give a push to the textile bill, southern Congressmen may push Harris's natural gas bill.

Harris himself, who is Chairman of the House Interstate Commerce Committee, has already delivered on a promise to rescue the textile bill from a Commerce subcommittee headed by Rep. Peter Mack of Illinois.

Smith's bill had gathered dust in the subcommittee ever since last April, but Harris used his powers as chairman to take the Smith bill away from the subcommittee just two days after the natural gas bill was approved by the full Commerce Committee on July 9.

Today and Tomorrow—

Improbable Disarmament Treaty

By WALTER LIPPMANN

Mr. Dulles is in London, it appears, to find a respectable common position on which the West can stand after the conference adjourns and while the West Germans hold their elections. There are at this point no signs that we are any nearer to an agreement with the Russians. There is indeed much evidence that while the London talks have been going on, the positions taken publicly by both sides have become harder and less negotiable. Both sides seem to regard the existing military and diplomatic stalemate as more acceptable and as less dangerous than a substantial negotiation.

Mr. Lippmann

One question which we are bound to ask ourselves is why we are disappointed. Did we ever have any right to hope that what has always failed before — namely, world disarmament by international agreement — had some chance of succeeding now? Men of experience, all the old hands in diplomacy, have known as a matter of course that nations engaged in a cold war will not disarm themselves. Why then, could so many of them have taken seriously what has been going on in the London talks?

Some, no doubt, have taken it seriously because they have been determined that if or when the disarmament talks fail, the blame would not fall on them.

Another Reason

But there has been another and a more interesting reason. It derives from the fact that modern armaments have reached a size and a destructiveness which makes them intolerable and incalculable. The race of armaments is so swift that weapons are obsolescent about as soon as they come into mass production. The result, on the one hand, is that no one really knows what is a safe limit on the expenditures for armaments, and the military budget is really a kind of blind wager with the national security. On the other hand, in the military establishment there is no stable strategical doctrine by which the services are bound to act together.

Because modern armaments have become different in kind from any that existed before the second World War, it has not been foolish to think that an agreement on armaments might be possible. There is no doubt that both in Moscow and in Washington there are men in high places who feel, as does President Eisenhower, that modern war can no longer be a rational and effective instrument of any political policy. What we are seeing, however, is that there is a great difference between a tacit understanding, such as has existed since the summit meeting at Geneva, and an open, formal agreement in cold print.

British Declaration

It is possible to have a tacit understanding that nuclear war is intolerable. But when we reach beyond that for a treaty to spell this out, every separate interest concerned with every unsettled issue rises up to block it. As these issues cannot within the foreseeable future be settled, as so many of these interests involved are irreconcilable, the real choice is this: shall we keep the tacit understanding but without a treaty, or shall we risk a breakdown of the tacit understanding in the vain attempt to translate it into a treaty? Indeed, it may be well that the President, who is the author of the tacit understanding, may find it necessary to save it from being torn to pieces during the pulling and hauling about a treaty.

The declaration of Berlin, which was published on Monday, is part of this pulling and hauling. For all practical purposes, it is a commitment on our part not to try to negotiate a significant treaty on armaments. For this declaration gives Dr. Adenauer the power of veto until the Soviet Union agrees to German reunification on terms which amount to unconditional surrender. At present, to put it mildly, the unconditional surrender of the Soviet Union is not in sight.

This declaration will no doubt be useful to Dr. Adenauer in his election campaign. But it amounts to an extraordinary concession for a great power to make, to give to another nation such a privilege and such a preference in dominating the conduct of its own foreign policy. Let us hope we do not learn to regret it.

Election in Wisconsin Considered Ike Boost

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

Wisconsin has often been a force in national politics and sometimes a good weathervane.

Both for what it did and for what it may reveal of things to come, the special Wisconsin primary this week, held because of the death of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, is significant on four counts:

Mr. Drummond

1.—It gave the Republican senatorial nomination to a clearly identifiable, strong Eisenhower supporter, former Gov. Walter J. Kohler, Jr., whose record makes him a progressive Republican in both domestic and international matters.

2. — It proved that the late Sen. McCarthy's home-state supporters could neither nominate the man they wanted nor prevent the nomination of the candidate they didn't want.

3. — It marked the second successive defeat of the right-wing, anti-Eisenhower leadership of the Wisconsin Republican organization which tried unsuccessfully to retire pro-Eisenhower Sen. Alexander Wiley and to defleet pro-Eisenhower Kohler..

4. — It virtually assured the election of a Republican Senator — but of a completely different mold than Mr. McCarthy — on Aug. 27. Obviously you can't say without reservation that Mr. Kohler will defeat William E. Proxmire, who won the Democratic nomination, but he has done so twice before. The judgment of Wisconsin political writers with whom I have talked, is that Kohler is an easy favorite.

National Bearing

There are important national implications in these results.

The nomination of Mr. Kohler, out of a field of seven contenders, strengthens the liberal wing of the Republican party at the grass roots in a state where reactionary leadership has dominated the party organization for many years. If he is elected, it will strengthen the liberal wing in the Senate where the White House sorely needs Republican support.

The fact that Republican voters nominated and re-elected incumbent Sen. Wiley last fall, after the party organization indorsed Rep. Glenn Davis in an effort to deny Wiley the nomination, suggests that the anti-Eisenhower organization in Wisconsin does not reflect rank-and-file sentiment.

The fact that Republican voters, nine months later in a second test of popular opinion, nominated and will probably elect Mr. Kohler, whom the anti-Eisenhower leaders of the party organization tried to defeat, suggests that the tide even in this conservative, once isolationist state, is continuing to run in favor of "Modern Republicanism."

Mr. Wiley ran and won as an all-out Eisenhower supporter.

Mr. Kohler ran and won as a candidate who expressly indorsed Mr. Eisenhower's defense budget, his foreign policies and efforts to carry out the 1956 Republican platform.

As the on-the-spot Associated Press correspondent, writing from Milwaukee, described the choice: "Kohler was alone in the seven-man G.O.P. field in his full support of the President.

Different Than McCarthy

It is not accurate to say that the issue of being for or against Sen. McCarthy figured strongly in the campaign. It didn't. It is not accurate to imply that former Gov. Kohler would have defeated Sen. McCarthy for the nomination if Mr. McCarthy had been running. No one knows. It is true that the Republican contender who explicitly and vigorously bid for Sen. McCarthy's old supporters, ran a poor sixth and received fewer than 8,000 votes. Most of the candidates neither bid for nor spurned former McCarthy voters. In the main they argued that the Senator was not an issue in the campaign.

Whether he was or was not a factor in the campaign, the results cannot be welcomed by former McCarthy backers. They can take no comfort in the defeat of Glenn Davis, whom last year Sen. McCarthy wanted to have nominated in place of Wiley, nor in the nomination of Mr. Kohler who was preparing to run against Sen. McCarthy next fall. Obviously, on nearly every major issue, including how best to fight Communism, Mr. Kohler, if elected will be a far different Senator than Mr. McCarthy.

The Democratic nominee, Mr. Proxmire, has managed to bring off three consecutive defeats for the Wisconsin governorship. He did better against Mr. Kohler the second time but poorer against Gov. Vernon Thomson last year.

My guess is that it will be Wisconsin Republicans, not Wisconsin Democrats, who will be responsible for replacing Sen. McCarthy with an un-McCarthy successor.

In The Open—

Anything Possible in Magic of the Brook

By JOHN H. DAY

Brook magic does not begin until you have passed the deep fishing pool and traversed the reedy meadow where the muskrats come to spice their midnight lunches with the pungent flagroot. You may, if you are alert, feel a touch of its witchery as you wind among the rocks and black alders of the level swamp beyond. Here the cinnamon fern lifts its regal fronds almost as high as your head. If by any chance you duck under these you are near the portals of a world where sorcery is rife, for every true countryman knows that fern seed has a mysterious power of its own.

The ferns of the alder swamp are signposts on the road to the land of the witch-hazel, where all sorts of magic things may come to pass. Don't take a spade to the swamp and try to transplant a good-sized cinnamon fern. You'll need an axe and a block and tackle too, for the plant has an underground trunk, sometimes two feet in diameter, almost as solid and firm in texture as that of a tree.

Ferns show no blossom to the world of butterfly or moth, no fruit for the delectation of squirrel or field mouse. The curious little dots growing along the margins of the leaves, called "fern seed", will grow no fern when planted. They simply grow a little leaf form which curiously imitates a blossom in its functions and produces a new fern.

Sleepy Song of Brook

But the witch-hazel is stranger yet in its ways. In the spring, when it should be putting out blossoms, it is busy growing nuts, which are the product of last year's flowers. Then in the late autumn, even November, you will find it in bloom, twisting yellow petal fingers in mourning at the fall of its own leaves.

Always there is the sleepy song which the brook sings to itself in summer — a song to which the warble of the vireo in the overhead leafage adds but a dreamy staccato. But if you listen through these, you will presently hear the water goblins grumbling to themselves in their abodes under flat stones. They are old and grumpy, these water goblins, and they never cease to mumble to themselves about their troubles.

Many a time I have turned the stones over suddenly, but I never yet have been quick enough to surprise the goblin. I have found him there, but never in his true shape. Always he has managed to transform himself into something different — perhaps into a spotted turtle or a grouchy watersnake. It is hard to catch a grumbling goblin asleep, especially in a pool below the witch-hazels, where the brook magic is strong.

Snake is Fish

Once, when I was trying to outwit the goblins, more magic was distilled right before my eyes. Over on the farther side, in the shallow eddy, the pool was troubled a second. Then there rose from it a three-inch sunfish, tail first, and began balancing across the pool surface toward me, on his head. He was two-thirds of the way across the pool before I noticed beneath him the tip of the nose and the wicked little dark eye of a watersnake.

I thought first to smite that snake and loose his prey, but he had a right to his dinner. So I lingered long enough to see the grace and strength of him as he glided over the sill of an old dam, always keeping his grip secure on the little sunfish whom he was taking away to luncheon with him. Magic indeed had been the dance of that hapless little sunfish across the darkened surface of the pool.

Who is to say where reality leaves off and witchery begins? Here in the goblin-haunted world of brook magic anything is possible. The hazel-shaded pools will show you many midsummer fantasies if you will but look for them. Wise men will explain to you that it is not possible to become invisible by sprinkling fern seed on your head during the dark of the moon and saying the right words. But did one of them every try it?

Edith Jane Conte Is Bride

Weds Robert Natalini in Church Rites

Nuptial ceremonies solemnized today, Aug. 3, in St. Anthony Roman Catholic Church of Monongahela united in marriage Edith Jane Conte and Robert Carmen Natalini.

The Rev. Joseph Abatte heard the exchange of vows before a flower decked altar at 10:30 a.m.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Conte, of 417 Fourth St., Monongahela. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carmine Natalini, 503 Graham St., Belle Vernon.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a gown of white Dupioni silk for her wedding attire. It was styled with a fitted bodice with short sleeves and a portrait neckline outlined with re-embroidered Alencon lace. The bouffant skirt of silk fell into a chapel train.

The bride had two honor attendants in the wedding party. Lilyan Affinito served as maid of honor, and Mrs. Blair (Louise) Griffith was the matron of honor.

Best man was John Skrypak, brother-in-law of the bridegroom. Serving as ushers were Thurman Craven, Norman Zanardelli and Michael Kara.

The matron of honor and maid of honor were identically attired. They wore gowns of cornflower blue cotton chiffon. They were styled with a fitted bodice and full ballerina length skirt. They chose matching headbands and short white gloves. Their flowers were cascade bouquets of mixed summer flowers.

Immediately preceding the bride to the church altar was the little flower girl, Susan Daugherty. She was attired in white organdy over blue taffeta with a blue sash. A band of sweetheart roses formed a pony tail ring for her hair, and she carried a bouquet of mixed summer flowers.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Conte selected a beige dress with black accessories and a corsage of yellow roses. Mrs. Natalini, mother of the bridegroom, wore a summer suit with matching blue accessories. Her corsage was of white gardenias.

Immediately following the nuptial high mass, Mr. and Mrs. Natalini received relatives and friends at a reception at Century Inn, Scenery Hill. Summer flowers were used in the decorations and a tiered wedding cake centered the bridal table.

After a wedding trip to Lake Placid, N. Y. the couple will reside in North Belle Vernon.

ON THE BALL

By CLAIR BROWN

Rechichar Featured in Magazine

Bert Rechichar, former Rostraver High grid standout, now starring with the Baltimore Colts of the NFL, is featured in a two-page spread in a current national professional grid review magazine. Very interesting piece on the former Leopard ace, who still holds the field goal distance record he established several seasons ago with a boot of 53 yards . . . While on the subject of the NFL, Pitt's Joe Walton will join the Redskins immediately after the College All-Star tilt and thus establish the first father-son combination in the history of the sport. His father Frank "Tiger" Walton starred in the 30's and early 40's for the 'Skins. Tiger was also an All-Star game choice, in 1934.

Bellmar High School's coaching staffs are fairly well set except for the baseball job. The 1958 high school season is a long way off but already names are being linked to the job by the rumor mill workers. Latest mentioned is Harry Muckle, currently managing the Fayette City Legionnaires in the Mon Valley League . . . The valley circuit by the way, has one of the hottest races in years both for the pennant and playoff berths. Fayette City apparently had things sewed up until this week when New Eagle upset the Mucklemen and second-place Charleroi posted a win over Perry. It'll be a down-to-the-wire finish.

Pitt's 'Beano' Cook 'Live Wire'

The phone rang the other afternoon and the voice on the other end said, "This is Carroll "Beano" Cook, Pitt publicity director". "Beano" then informed us that he had made a round of the valley newspapers Tuesday, but we were "out." The "closed" sign was on the door due, naturally, to the community picnic. Anyway, Beano made up for lost time in a hurry when in the short interlude of just about 15 minutes he supplied us with the following info: That the Panthers should have another top-notch football eleven; that the Pitt-Oklahoma game is not sold out yet but expected to be before the season's opening kickoff time; and that Charley Breuckman would make All-American.

* * *

As if the above weren't sufficient Beano jumped a complete season of football in one sentence by announcing that Don Hennon, the ex-Wampum sensation is a sure-fire BASKETBALL All-American. Other interesting bits of info included the bit about how Cook feels that Brownsville's Andy Sepsi can't miss as a standout gridder; a hope that Charleroi's Jim Lenhart will come into his own this season just as he came on to star for the Cougars in his senior year. Cook also praised the Monongahela Valley for its "wonderful football talent which we hope will start syphoning its way to Pitt in large quantities." If Beano keeps up the splendid good will work he's been accomplishing, his wish may come true.

Stan Wants to Remain in Baseball

Stan (The Man) Musial, in answer to a query by a Pittsburgh sports writer last week, stated that he would definitely like to stay in baseball. "It's my life and when you get into it it stays with you," Stan replied. "Stush" was undoubtedly referring to an executive position for we doubt if he would want to be a manager due to his calm, friendly nature . . . Three New Kensington area softball players have been suspended from amateur softball for an attack on an umpire who was just WATCHING a game . . . Tri-County Softball League manager Jim Cramer is singing the praises of Babe Weightman of Cramer's Monessen CIO team. "He's one of the finest hitters in the district," says Cramer, who has been around the softball circuit for a long time.

Champ-Rademacher Bout Seen Dangerous

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP) — Fearless Fraley's facts and figures:

Jack Hurley, who is promoting the Floyd Patterson - Pete Rademacher heavyweight atrocity at Seattle on Aug. 22, should know how dangerous this mismatch could be, according to Newark promoter Willie Gilzenberg.

"The last time Hurley brought a fighter into Newark, he helped carry the guy out of the ring—and the guy died 10 days later," Gilzenberg reports.

Hurley's fighter was a heavyweight named Lem Franklin. Despite the fact that Franklin had been knocked out in three previous bouts, Hurley signed him against Larry Lane — with fatal results.

"If anything happens to Rademacher, it could also kill boxing in the United States," Gilzenberg admits fearfully.

Secrets Of Success

If you wonder why Casey Stengel has been so fabulously successful with the Yankees, consider the cases of Bob Grim and Art Ditmar. Grim, rookie of the year a couple of years back as a starter, was transformed into a late inning reliever. Ditmar, a workhorse at Kansas City who was rated as a heavy duty starter, has become Casey's early inning relief man.

Grim is 10-3 and Ditmar is 7-1. Which means that the ex-starters, now in relief, have a combined record of 17-4, which is what wins pennants.

Woody Hayes, the Ohio State football coach, was readying a fine book on Buckeye football. But last week the plant which was printing his book burned to the ground. So when you say "hot off the press," Woody knows exactly what you mean.

Watch Calumet Farm

Calumet Farm is a cinch to be the turf's leading stable in money winnings for the second year in a row—and has its eyes fixed on 1958, too, with a fine crop of 2-year-olds heading for the races.

Four are eligible for the world's richest race, the Garden State, on Oct. 26. Keep your eye on them: A Bull Lea colt named Kentucky Pride; Tim Tam, from Tom Fool's first stud crop; Jeriel, by Khaled, which sired Swaps, and a Citation colt called Temple Hill.

Whispers have been circulating around the fight beat that former featherweight king Sandy Saddler is visiting the gym in preparation for a comeback, but this is strictly talk. Saddler keeps chattering about making a return but, while the operation for a detached retina was successful, the eye will never take those punishing punches again and he couldn't get medical clearance.

Ozarks-Perryopolis in 6-6 Tie

Both 9s Protest Contest

Monessen Ozarks and Perryopolis battled to a 6-6 tie in a wild and woolly game at Perryopolis last night which saw both teams protesting the game.

According to observers the game progressed smoothly until the bottom of the sixth inning then the lid blew off when Perry plated three markers.

In fact, from the third to the six innings both teams were held hitless in a well-played clash.

The Ozarks had taken a 3-0 lead in the first, had it cut to 3-2 when Perry tallied twice in the bottom of the initial frame and then after the locals increased their margin again by 4-2 in the second, had it cut to 4-3 in the third. There was no further scoring until the sixth.

Trouble Starts in 6th

In the sixth frame the trouble began when after Kenny Sams, Davis and DiVirgillo hit in succession with the score 4-3 Monessen, to plate Sams and put the count at 4-4. Bill Mitnick then replaced Pezzelle on the mound for the locals. Coporella bunted in front of the plate to score Davis but Mitnick threw to first to get Coporella. The Perry second-sacker took exception to the call, however and charged the umpire Red McConnell. After some deliberation, in which McConnell consulted plate umpire Al Crompton, Coporella was called safe, McConnell claiming he was blocked by dust from seeing the play.

Monessen took exception to the ruling with Bob Mastracci claiming vigorously that Crompton could not see the play at home either due to the dust. The game was held up for 15 minutes. Mastracci was ejected from the game and Perry went on to score three runs on four hits to take a 6-4 lead.

More Trouble

In the top seventh, more trouble developed when, with Carl Crawley at bat, Manager Pappy Johnson of the locals was overheard making remarks in the dugout and was ordered out of the game, followed by Mitnick, or at least he thought he was ejected. But in the next inning when the locals were short of players due to subs going home when the three Perry runs scored in the sixth, Mitnick was allowed to hurl, a move which Perry protested.

A hit by Bill Valla, batting for Mastracci, triple by Carl Crawley and a single by center-fielder Mike Kunsa produced a tie for the locals and Perry was set down in order by Mitnick in the last frame.

This marked the second time this season a tie game and "rhubar" had developed between Perry and the locals. The other occassion being on July 17 when a homer was ruled no good due to a runner not touching first base and then the ruling reversed and the homer allowed.

Tri-County Stars Top City Aces, 6-3

Playing before a large crowd in a game described as one of the finest softball attractions ever played here, the Tri-County All-Stars defeated the local City League Stars, 6-3 at Ninth Street Park last night.

Four unearned runs featured the win for the Tri-County squad. "Slick" Shilling of ULBA started on the mound for Monessen and hurled 12-3 innings, giving up just three hits. He was the victim of some faulty fielding, however, and the County team took an early 5-0 lead.

Doty Hits Homer

Three TCL runs scored in the first inning on two Monessen errors and a home run by opposing hurler Art Doty, of the Monongahela entry. Two walks and two singles produced two more runs in the second frame.

Steve Rockovich of the Cro-Ams relieved Schilling and pitched 4 1-3 innings holding the County Stars scoreless and giving up just three hits. Tony Turcaso relieved Rockovich in the seventh and gave up one run in the eight inning when Bill Hoffman singled and Art Bandini stroked a double to bring in the final marker for the County team.

Doty hurled eight innings, allowing three runs on seven hits. Tom Standard of Monessen CIO, relieved Doty in the ninth and retired the City Stars in order.

Lattanzio Homers

Ernie Lattanzio of the Cro-Ams blasted out a tremendous homer in the second inning. The locals scored again in the third when Frank Stancato singled and Pete Prezcar doubled him home.

Monessen tallied its final marker in the eighth on successive singles by Doc Destefano and Ray Johnson and a sacrifice fly by Turcaso. Frank Stancato of the local squad was the only batter on either team to garner more than one hit, getting two singles.

President Doc Destefano of the local league and Ted Nichols, prexy of the County loop, stated after the game that due to the tremendous interest shown by the fans the tilt may become an annual event.

Don Young of the losers allowed only seven hits but one was a first inning inside the park homer by Roy Barli and another triple by George Zuraw who later scored on Barli's single.

Tinse Manown garnered Fayette City's only safe blow, a single in the second but no other runner reached second base as Uhlman fanned the last 13 in order.

Brown Appoints Danny Murtaugh Temporary Pilot

By IRA LURVEY

CHICAGO (UP) — Bad boy Bobby Bragan was fired as manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates by General Mangaer Joe L. Brown and replaced by coach Danny Murtaugh at an early morning press conference.

"I think for the present and future good of the Pittsburgh club that a change must be made," Brown said.

He said he would not make "any specific statement, now or later" concerning exactly what caused him to fire Bragan so suddenly.

Bragan, who came to the big leagues with a reputation as an umpire baiter and a field comedian, kept the same antics in the National League. Only this week he asked President Warren Giles of the National League to break up a team of umpires which Bragan said threw out players and managers through whim more than circumstance.

Fined, Warned

Bragan this week was fined $100 by Giles and warned that severe penalties might result unless he changed his policies. The fine was for coming back on the field to offer soft drinks to the umpires after they had ejected him from the game.

It was likely that Bragan's sense of humor had an effect upon Brown's decision to oust him, and it is equally likely that Brown might have received some suggestions from Giles about Bragan's future.

Murtaugh Temporary

Brown said Murtaugh would take over the seventh-place National League club with the understanding "that this is just a temporary assignment for the rest of the year and is in no way a committal for 1958."

Pirate officials said coach Clyde Sukeforth first was offered the job but, knowing the choice was between him and Murtaugh, declined the offer.

Bragan came to the Pirates from Hollywood of the Pacific Coast League. He was hired by Brown Nov. 2, 1955 to replace Fred Haney, who was fired at the end of the 1955 season.

Bragan was re-hired for this year last Nov. 20.

Bragan, who sat quietly through this morning's press conference, said he was "disappointed but not surprised" by the change.

"When your club loses twice as many games as it wins, a change is justifiable," he said.

"Hadn't you better make that word 'inevitable' instead of 'Justifiable'?" Brown asked.

Inevitable Move

"I guess you're right," Bragan said. "I guess the word had ought to be 'inevitable.'"

Bragan said his immediate plans were to return to Pittsburgh to pick up his family and then go to Ft. Worth, Tex. He said he "imagined" he would stay in baseball but had nothing definite lined up until October, when he is slated to manage the Havana Almandares in the Cuban League.

DOCTORING YOUR GOLF

Iron Trouble

Let me empasize here that this "treatment" is advised only for older players who just can't hit with the long-irons.

The five-wood will, if the wind factor is negligible, provide about the same distance as the two-iron. And with its added loft, it is easier to handle.

But for playing shots into a stiff wind, the five wood is apt to prove troublesome because it sends the ball so high so quickly. Also, the two-iron, if mastered, will give better overall accuracy then the five-wood. So be reluctant to give up on mastering the two-iron since it's the more versatile club of the two.

If, however, you have become convinced that your swing won't let you use a two-iron satisfactorily, the five-wood is the answer.

Yanks Netters Hope to Clinch Zone Title Today

CHESTNUT HILL, Mass. (UP) —The United States Davis Cup team hoped to clinch the American Zone championship today as they take on Brazil in doubles match at the Longwood Cricket Club.

A U.S. victory today would qualify them to meet the winner of the Italy - Belgium match being held in Europe this week end.

A win by the Brazilians, who have thus far been game but outclassed, would force the best-of-five American Zone playoff into one and possibly two singles matches Sunday.

Barry MacKay, the 21-year-old Dayton, Ohio flash was scheduled to represent the United States, together with either veteran Vic Seixas of Philadelphia or Sammy Giammalva, 23, of Houston, Tex.

The United States scored a double victory in opening singles play Friday as Giammalva beat Vieira in five sets while Seixas coasted to a three-straight set victory over Fernandes.

Buccos Lose Sixth Straight, 6-4

All Cub Runs Are Unearned

CHICAGO (UP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates meet the Chicago Cubs today under the helm of a new manager.

Pirate General Manager Joe L. Brown today appointed Danny Murtaugh to the top position after firing Bobby Bragan.

Bragan's dismissal came after the Pirates lost their sixth straight game—Friday's 6-4 contest with the Cubs, in which all the Cub runs were unearned.

The loss put the Bucs only one game out of last place.

For Chicago, it was their first victory in four games, an achievement effected by Cal Neeman's three-run homer in the eighth. Neiman's blast drove in Bobby Morgan, who ran for Dale Long after the latter singled and Ernie Banks who was safe on Dick Groat's error at first. The shot came off starter Vern Law who suffered the loss, his ninth against seven victories.

Neeman's homer erased a 4-3 Pirate lead, gained on home runs by Groat and Bob Skinner in the fourth inning and by Gene Freese in the eighth.

The Pirates announced Friday the signing of 18-year-old pitcher Peter Sala, a lefthander who averaged 17 strikeouts per game at Hartford (Conn.) Public High School.

Sala was signed to a non-bonus contract with Pittsburgh's Lincoln, Neb., farm club in the Class A Western League. Lincoln will option him to the Pirates' Salem, Va., farm in the Appalachian League for the remainder of the season.

New 400-Meter Medley Swim Record Set?

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — A new world's record may have been set for the 400-meter individual medley race by a 17-year-old Californian at the national men's outdoor swimming and diving championships.

Gary Heinrich, of Hayward, Calif., churned through the 100-meter legs of the butterfly stroke, back stroke, breast stroke, and the freestyle leg in 5.15 6 Friday night to clock in just two-tenths of a second slower than the world mark set by V Strojanov, of Russia, in 1954. However, Strojanov was clocked in a 40 - meter pool while Heinrich was timed in the regulation 50-meter Olympic pool here.

The new meet record will be submitted as a world's record to the International Swimming Federation by Dr. Harold Henning, chief timer and member of the U.S. Olympic Swimming Committee. Henning said he is sure it will be approved because the federation usually accepts a mark made on the longer course as a short pool gives a swimmer more turns which boosts his speed.

Main Squad Of Steelers Off to Camp

Monessen Heating & Roofing Is Ready to Solve Heating Problems

Now before Fall and colder weather rolls around is the time of the year — even though we don't like to think of Winter coming on — to solve your home heating problem, particularly if it hasn't been satisfactory.

That means you'd be wise to Phone MUrray 4-6313 and ask the Monessen Heating & Roofing firm, 445 Schoonmaker avenue, to send out a representative to discuss the matter with you.

You can get clean, quiet home heating comfort with the General Electric Gas furnace for warm air heating systems, sold and installed by this firm.

And here are some of the advantages: For more even temperatures, it circulates the air. For greater cleanliness, it filters the air. For greater comfort, it humidifies the air. For dependability, it has a unique control system.

Plus quick heat, too! The famous G-E "pin-point" heating surfaces "transfer" heat from burner flame to air — quickly — giving you faster heat throughout your home.

The Monessen Heating & Roofing firm also sells and installs the well known Winkler oil burner.

That Winkler oil burner is a real economy. Just look at this:

Economy No. 1. The LP eliminates excessive service cost caused by nozzle clogging, and filter and strainer stoppage. The LP nozzle does not clog. The LP uses no filters and the coarse strainer does not stop up. Notice comparative nozzle openings below.

Economy No. 2. When one gallon of No. 3 fuel oil is burned 140,000 B. T. U. (heat units) are released. Most conventional home type burners are installed with nozzles as large, or larger, than one and one-fourth gallons per hour to prevent clogging — thus releasing 175,000 B. T. U. per hour, or more. The average home heating plant is designed to absorb and transfer approximately 100,000 B. T. U. per hour, and with one and one-fourth g.p.h. nozzle, so much heat is excessively high and much of the heat is wasted. The three-fourth g.p.h. LP Burner releases 105,000 b.t.u. — just the correct amount for the heating load, and the heating plant can absorb it efficiently without high stack losses.

Economy No. 3. Most oil burners because they are oversized to prevent service — have short operating periods and seldom a maximum efficiency. (Comparable to driving your car for the first few minutes with a cold engine.) Since the LP is actually sized to the heating plant, it operates longer periods, thus achieving maximum efficiency.

Economy No. 4. Conventional burners are critical of oils, reing No. 3 or lighter. They are particularly critical of hard cracked oils. The LP will burn the very domestic oils. It does not require a high priced highly refined oil.

'Sizzling Stan' Regains Top Batting Slot; Cards Win, 5-4

By MILTON RICHMAN

Ma, that man's here again—siammin' Stan Musial — and if you're getting a bit tired of reading about him every day, consider those poor pitchers who have to go out there and take their lumps from him day after day.

Musial Friday night blasted a triple and a pair of doubles to help the St. Louis Cardinals reel off their seventh straight victory, a 10-inning 5-4 decision over the Philadelphia Phillies.

When it was all over, Stan the Man had taken over the National League batting leadership with a .339 average and the Cardinals had retained their hold on first place by two percentage points over the Braves.

Musial broke up the ball game when he doubled with two out in the 10th to score Don Blasingame. The blow gave reliever Willard Schmidt his 10th victory and the Cards their 11th triumph in 16 extra inning games this year. Joe Cunningham also homered for St. Louis while Stan Lopata and Harry Anderson each connected for the Phillies.

Lanky Gene Conley pitched and batted the Braves to a 1-0 victory over the Dodgers; Cincinnati handed the Giants their sixth consecutive loss, 9-6; and the Cubs beat the Pirates, 6-4.

Yanks Widen Lead

The Yankees widened their American League lead to five games with a 3-2 win over the Indians; the Red Sox nipped the White Sox, 5-4, in 10 innings; Washington emerged from the cellar with a 2-1 victory over Detroit; and the Orioles shoved Kansas City into the basement by sweeping a twi-night double-header from them, beating the Athletics, 5-4, in a 13-inning opener, and 10-2, in the nightcap.

Conley blanked Brooklyn on four hits and drove in the only run of the game when he singled home Johnny Logan from second base in the fifth inning. Southpaw Johnny Podres was the losing pitcher.

Wally Post won the game for Cincinnati when he walloped a three-run homer in the ninth inning off Al Worthington. Giant Manager Bill Rigney shook up his lineup liberally in an attempt to snap a losing streak but homers by Bobby Thomson and Willie Mays were matched by homers off the bats of Ted Kluszewski and Smokey Burgess. Reliever Hersh Freeman was the winner.

A three-run homer by Cal Neeman in the eighth inning was the payoff blow in the Cubs' triumph over the Pirates. Neeman's homer off Vern Law wiped out a 4-3 Pittsburgh lead gained on homers by Dick Groat, Bob Skinner and Gene Freese.

Pinch-hitter Harry Simpson singled home Jerry Coleman in the eighth inning with the run that gave the Yanks their fifth straight triumph. Southpaw Don Mossi held New York hitless for 6 1-3 innings only to run afoul of back-to-back homers by Gil McDougald and Mickey Mantle in the seventh. Tom Sturdivant posted his ninth victory with Bob Grim's aid in the ninth.

Williams Blasts No. 30

Ted Williams hit a three - run homer, his 30th, for the Red Sox in the fifth inning but it was Jackie Jensen's 10th-inning single with the bases loaded that won the game after the White Sox tied the score at 4-4 with two runs in the ninth. The victory went to reliever George Susce Jr.

Julio Becquer's pinch single in the ninth inning scored Pete Ramos from second base with the run that pulled Washington out of the cellar. Roy Sievers slammed his 29th homer, his fifth in as many consecutive games to move within one of the league record. Camilo Pascual pitched a five-hitter for his eighth victory. Paul Foytack was the loser.

Bob Boyd's 13th - inning homer off Tom Gorman gave the Orioles their victory in the opener and Connie Johnson and Ken Lehman combined to hold Kansas City to seven hits in the nightcap.

The Orioles broke a string of 33 straight scoreless innings when they scored a run in the second inning of the opener. Joe Durham homered for Baltimore while Hec Lopez and Woody Held did likewise for the A's.

Johnson, who went 6 1-3 innings, was the winner in the nightcap as the Orioles rapped five Kansas City pitchers for 11 hits. Ned Garver was the loser.

Retiring Problem In Iowa

By ED HEINS

IOWA CITY, Iowa, (UP) — Iowa researchers have been looking for a way to substitute the lunch box for the rocking chair.

They've got nothing against the rockers. It's only that they think older folks would be happier if they spent some of their late years working instead of rocking.

The problem has special significance in Iowa because the state has a higher proportion of residents over 65 than any other state.

The nation has 4,500 persons older than 100, according to the U.S. Census Bureau, and 424 or about 10 per cent of them live in Iowa. The researchers have been traying to explain that phenomenon. But no luck so far.

The new study is under the supervision of the University of Iowa's Institute of Gerontology and has a proper setting.

Dr. Woodrow W. Morris, who heads the institute, drives a "model A" Ford and works in one of the oldest buildings on the campus.

The outward trappings belie the youthful Morris' "up-to-date" outlook toward his problems.

Morris said people "don't plan for retirement." People "don't want to get old and don't want to retire" so they make no provisions, he said.

"My father was one of those who didn't plan," he said.

"He was a teacher in Michigan when he was told he would have to retire," Morris said. "He just didn't know what to do with himself the first year of his retirement but he was saved when there was a shortage of teachers. The school board offered him another chance to teach."

Signs Another Contract

"That was 10 years ago, and he just recently signed another year's contract to teach mathematics," Morris said.

It's relatively easier for teachers and professional men to face retirement because they can "taper off" with lighter teaching loads and curtailed professional practices, Morris said

"However, it's not easy for the factory workers who are just let out of the job at 65 and have nothing else to fall back on," he said.

"We cling to the idea of youth in the face of studies which show older workers have less absenteeism and accidents," he said

"As the country's population grows older, industry will be forced to revalue its ideals and will probably come to the point where it will retire people only when they can't keep up production," Morris said.

"Industry just has to realize that some people are old at 50 while others are alert and fully capable at 75," he said.

George Lingers Near Death; Can't Recover

VIENNA, Ga. (UP)—Former U.S. Sen. Walter F. George lingered near death today with doctors convinced the 79-year-old foreign affairs expert can no longer rally in his fight against a heart ailment.

Dr. Martin L. Malloy, George's family physician, said after a visit with the former "dean" of the Senate Friday night, "His heart is growing weaker.

"We no longer have any hope that he will rally," he said. "It is very difficult to give up hope. His condition is deteriorating rapidly."

The veteran Democrat, long time chairman of the Senate Foreign Affairs Committee and later President Eisenhower's ambassador to NATO, is suffering from complications of atherosclerosis, a disease which causes a narrowing or clotting of the blood vessels that serve the heart.

New Drugs to War on Disease

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

Development of three new drugs, destined to benefit mankind in three different ways, comprises this month's report on medical advances.

Streptovaricin, a new antimicrobial agent, gives promise of being of value in the treatment of tuberculosis. The drug is derived from a fungus, Streptomyces spectabilis, found in the soil near Dallas, Texas.

Doctors who have studied the drug report it is active against a wide variety of bacteria and is "particularly striking" when used against the tuberculosis germ.

Experiments with mice indicate it is especially effective for treating tuberculosis when used in conjunction with the drug isoniazied. Although only half as active as isoniazid when used alone, it is nevertheless, about ten times as active as streptomycin and about 100 times as active as para-aminosalicylic acid.

Washington pathologists report that the mustard derivative ThioTEPA (cq) is one of the best all-around drugs yet found for treating certain cancers and leukemias.

Growth of tumors was noticeably impeded after application of ThioTEPA in more than 50 cancer cases that were studied.

Appreciable inhibition of cancer growth was noted in carcinoma of the ovaries, lungs, stomach, liver, mouth and pancreas, as well as melanomas and lymphomas, including Hodgkins disease. Earlier studies produced excellent results in cases of lymphocytic and monocytic leukemia.

While we cannot regard this new drug as a cure for cancer, it does offer promise as an adjunct to cancer therapy.

A new pain-killing drug, one of the fastest-acting known, was revealed recently at an American Chemical Society meeting. The new compound is a synthetic product and in tests on animals relieved pain in 10 minutes as compared with the 45 minutes required by morphine.

Like morphine, this new drug belongs to a family known as analgesics — agents which ease pain without causing the patient to lose consciousness.

The new analgesic also is reported to have a long-lasting effect.

Question and Answer

P.W.: I have been bothered for years with prespiring hands. Can you advise me what to do?

Answer: Excessive sweating of the palms may be an indication of some general disorder, such as an infection or perhaps even difficulty with the thyroid gland. In many cases, it is a localized condition, the cause for which cannot be determined.

There is no treatment that seems to be of any particular value. Of course, a careful search should be made for the cause, so that it can be eliminated.

Mickey Rooney Back Starring in the Films

By ALINE MOSBY

HOLLYWOOD, (UP)—Most stars have ups and downs and this is Mickey Rooney's up season—he's back starring in movies with "my first really adult role" and first love scenes.

Although Mickey insists with the usual actor's bravado that "I've been working right along", his roles have been small in recent years and not up to the stuff of the former MGM star.

Then came Mickey's talked about TV success in "The Comedian" and "The George M. Cohan Story." Now the bustling Rooney is considered a hot property in the topsy-turvy world of show business again, and is starring, not as his usual cocky tomboy self, but as a cold-blooded killer in "Baby Face Nelson", The story of the real American gangster.

"The TV shows helped tremendously," admitted the Mick as he lolled in a bathtub (but with a gun on the edge) a scene in the picture. "Before I had to take roles to keep working. Now I'm in a position to pick and choose my parts."

The studio synopsis of the movie lists Baby Face's age in the story as 23, but Rooney says he's supposed to be "27 or 28."

"Well, maybe 25," said the fast-talking actor.

"But it is really a grown-up role. He's a ruthless guy, a real different part for me. This is the first time I've had my hair long in five years. I've been playing those teen-age crew-cut roles."

Be Careful In Use Of Well

Do you know how to chlorinate a well?

It's as easy as it is necessary, the National Water Well Association points out, following the drilling of a new well or repairs to an existing well.

Chlorine is one of the most powerful disinfectants known. It takes surprisingly little — two cups of ordinary five per cent laundry bleach — to make a four-inch, 100-feet well safe, the association explains It is better to use too much than too little chlorine, to make certain that one treatment does the job. The entire water system — well, pump, piping and storage tank — should be included in the disinfecting process.

Here are the steps to follow, as outlined by the National Water Well Association:

1. Add chlorine solution to well
2. Run a hose from an outside faucet into the well, then start the pump. This pulls the disinfecting solution into the storage tank.
3. Open all faucet outlets, drawing solution into lines.
4. Shut off the pump, close faucets, cover the well and let the solution remain in the system overnight.
5. Open faucets and start the pump again in the morning, permitting water to run until the chlorine odor disappears.
6. Operate the system a few days. Then send sample of water for testing to the nearest state health deparment bacteriological laboratory.

Home Owners Always Ready To Modernize

Before the ink is barely dry on the sales contract for a new house, many a buyer already has plans for adding something or changing something.

This is especially true of houses built in quanity in development projects, as most new homes are these days. Such houses offer economies through large scale production, but they present a "package" in which the individual buyer necessarily gets limited choice in features.

In making the interior suit a family's own taste and needs and differ from other houses in the block, the installation of paneling provides many kind of solutions. Because of its ease of application and its variety of patterns and colors, predecorated hardboard is especially well adapted for such a project, whether large or small.

The project might be to adorn a wall section by a fireplace or a stairway with wood grain panels. Or it might be to cover walls next to kitchen food preparation areas with an easy-to-clean surface. Or perhaps the walls of a child's bedroom or play room should be given a more durable surface.

'Old-fashioned' Ideas Making Strong Comeback

Many features of homes which were widely used 50 years ago and then eliminated are making a comeback in modern houses, according to a recent survey of nationally-featured home plans.

"Old fashioned" ideas which are highly favored in new homes include the large family kitchen which is now often called the "family room"; the front parlor which is usually reserved for guests (the family now congregates in the family room); the inter-com system, which is actually an improvement on old-style "speaking tubes" which older houses were equipped; and the basement, which is now made of steel instead of wood.

It serves as an all-weather protection for the modern basement game room which has replaced the old-style cellar.

HERE'S HOW...

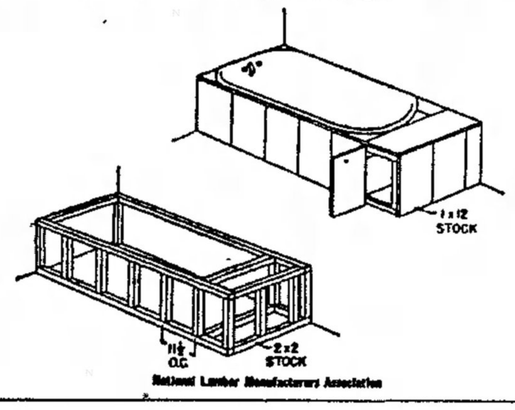
MODERNIZE THE OLD BATHTUB

An old-fashioned bathtub can be readily modernized by the home craftsman. Storage space is provided by extending the enclosure beyond the end of the tub. If the tub is one with exposed pipes, install a door for easy access to the plumbing.

The framework is made of 2 by 2-inch lumber. The paneling is made of 1 by 12-inch lumber or tileboard. The base of the frame should be positioned on the floor so the dimensions can be determined. When fastening the sole to a wooden floor, use 8-penny nails. For tile floors use an adhesive or drill holes in the tile for expansion anchors and screw the sole in place.

Cut the uprights 2¾ inch shorter than the lip of the tub if panelling is used. Assemble the uprights to the top plate. Slide the completed sections in place under the lip of the tub and toenail to the sole and to each other. Attach the paneling. Apply caulking where the tub and paneling meet.

Make the door, planing 1/16 inch from all edges for clearance. Hang the door. Add door pulls and friction catches. Recess the hinges.



Capture Cool Air

"Capturing" cool night air is one way to keep a house from feeling the full effects of hot summer days.

In most homes, this can be done by closing the house up as tightly as possible in the morning to keep sunlight and hot daytime air from warming the cooler air that has entered the house during the night.

Even during long, mid-summer heat waves, there is often as much as a 20-degree difference in temperature between the coolest early morning hours and the hottest part of the afternoon

The method of capturing cool night air works best in a well-insulated house. Thick mineral wool — at least four inches in ceilings and three inches in the walls — slows down the penetration of outside heat. Owners of existing houses can have mineral wool insulation blown pneumatically into these areas Batts and blankets are available for installation by home-owners or professionals where the wall or ceiling construction permits the material to be fitted in place.

Awnings, shade trees, reflective screening, and vine-covered trellises also are important, since these block direct rays of the sun.

Look at Roof Before Painting

Cast a critical eye at the appearance of your roof before you paint your house.

This is the advice of New Yok color stylist Beatrice West, who says "Putting a new coat of paint on a house with a shabby, worn-out roof is like wearing a fur coat and diamonds with dungarees. They just don't go together."

Miss West, who color-styles thousands of new and remodeled homes every year, says she always examines the roof of a house first before deciding on a color scheme because

"Nothing spoils the appearance of an attractive home more than a weather-beaten roof. This is especially true when a house has been freshly painted. The new paint actualiy accentuates the shabbiness of the roof."

If the roof of a house shows signs of wearing out, Miss West says, she usually recommends a new roof of asphalt shingles in a color which will provide a basic shade for other colors on siding, trim, and accent spots.

"As for the added cost," Miss West says, "I explain that when a roof begins to look worn, chances are it will no longer be serviceable in a year or two. The family will have to reroof then, anyway, and they might as well do it now and enjoy a completely color-styled house instead of doing the job only half-way."

The many colors available in asphalt shingles are a big help to color stylists, Mi Wet ays. "For example, by choosing a roof of blended green with a fleck of yellow in it, I can pick up the yellow for an accent color on doors, window boxes and shutters while the trim and windows can be painted in a harmonizing green."

Another trick with roof color, Miss West adds, "makes houses look taller or longer and lower. You simply reroof a tall, awkward-looking house with a deep, dark color and it appears lower. The opposite is true of a small house that seems to be built oo close to the ground. Light-color roofing gives it a lift, making it seem taller and larger."

A leading furniture manufacturer is now marketing a bed that comes complete with wood paneling for the wall behind it.

The wall paneling is in the form of an illuminated canopy headboard made of alternating bands of teak and walnut plywood. Purpose of the design is to lend extra warmth and charm to bedroom walls.
